

Ulster MOB ATTACKS SINK FEIN ASSASSINS

Thousands Captured in Great Pole Victory

SEARCH IS APPLIED TO HOMES BY AVENGERS OF MURDERED OFFICER

BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ELFAST, Aug. 22.—Rioting is in progress in Lisburn, as of the assassination of Inspector Swanson today. An attempt was made to wreck the shop of a Sinn Fein leader within yards of the scene and only intervention by Ulster volunteers prevented it.

WIRELESS DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Suffrage leaders in Washington, while their efforts to rob them of a verdict in their favor in the trial of the Sinn Fein leaders, are apprehensive over the time when they are to leave the city to attend the meeting of American women in them to vote at the general election next November.

The congregations were leaving all the Protestant churches at the time and converging on the scene of the shooting.

SLAYERS USE RIFLES.

Three men, armed with rifles, confronted Swanson and fired on him in the presence of his family. Swanson fell, but the assassins discharged their weapons again into his body.

Capt. Woods, commandant of the Liverpool branch of the Ulster volunteers, made a statement for members, although only armed with a stick.

The assassins fired, a bullet shattering the stick in Woods' hands.

He was not injured.

MURKIN ESCAPE.

The murderers fled at other persons, but without effect, and jumped into a waiting taxicab and drove toward Belfast. All roads were patrolled by police and military, but the assassins escaped.

The verdict at the Curzon inquiry, Premier Lloyd George, Viscount French, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and others, including Swanson, guilty of murder.

In some quarters, the belief is strong that the shooting was an attempt to intimidate the government, in connection with incarceration of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork.

A police patrol was ambushed at Dundalk. One constable was killed and two wounded.

BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The London Times this morning says it understands that Great Britain has agreed to recognize the independence of Egypt.

The decision, according to the Times, resulted from recent conversations between the Viceroy Milner and the Egyptian delegation, headed by Said Zagloul Pasha, former Minister of Justice.

Among the fundamental points of the agreement are:

"Egypt will recognize Great Britain's privileged position in the Canal Zone, and agree to a cause of war to afford every facility for access to Egyptian territory; Great Britain will maintain a garrison in Egypt; in the Canal Zone, Egypt remains subject to her not making treaties contrary to her policy, and will have the right to maintain diplomatic representatives abroad. Capitulations will be abolished."

RUSSIANS LIVE HARD LIFE NOW.

Former "Gentlemen" Fled to Far East and Trouble.

Family Jewels Now Gone, They Work for Living.

Beautiful Women Advertise to Get Husbands.

BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 22.—When the soviet government came into power and decided that going to bed at 3 o'clock in the morning and getting up at 2 in the afternoon was no longer the life of a gentleman of Russia, the erstwhile Russian gentleman picked up the family jewels and made for the east.

There are Russians everywhere in the Far East, but there are more in Yokohama, Japan, and Shanghai, China, than elsewhere.

The Americans difficulties. At first the family jewels brought a lot of yen and taels. Prices went up in the Japanese shops and Chinese stores. Hotels were overpriced, and hotel clerks behaved as independent Jade asemen. The western world of the Far East then got the name.

OUTLOOK GLOOMY.

Meanwhile, those who are used to work are trying to work in Japan and China. In Shanghai are Russian barbers, garage men and dancers, who have seen better days, but who do not think better days are coming.

Russians who find it difficult to sustain life here are those who, before Bolshevism, were professional soldiers. Some hire themselves out to Chinese factions in the business of war, which is a thriving trade in China at the present moment.

More difficult than the position of the soldier is the position of the peasant. Russian women, though many really beautiful, Russians have, American, British or French husbands, and some of them advertise, stating their object is matrimony. Many have lost face and fortune in cabarets, well known to the commercial travelers of the east.

The refugees from Bolshevism who inhabit the Far East are soon.

HEAVY RUSS LOSSES.

BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—The situation in the border district of Soldau is becoming critical as a result of the advance of the Poles, according to a special dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung from Neidenburg. Retreating Russians are said to have suffered heavy losses.

Refugees report Polish patrols have been seen eight miles west of Soldau. Discipline among the retreating Russians is said to be in strange contrast with their orderly advance.

About 1,000 refugees from Soldau have arrived on German territory. CIVILIANS ORDERED OUT.

A dispatch from the Berliner Lokal Anzeiger states that the soviet staff has ordered the civilian population to evacuate Soldau, expecting that the town will be a battle-ground within the next few days.

The newspaper's correspondent states that the Poles, though their Polish successes do not have a decided military significance, as he says, the Bolsheviks will bring up heavy reinforcements.

The Bolsheviks at Soldau are fortifying themselves, drafting men and female civilians for digging trenches.

CONNECTIONS SEVERED.

A dispatch from Neidenburg, East Prussia, says connections with Soldau ceased Friday night. The city apparently was surrendered by the Russians without a struggle.

They are reported to be retreating from fortified positions north and south of the city.

Russian officers are quoted as saying the retreat is due to shortage of numerous, poor and unhappy. They are far away from home, with no chance of returning until soviet Russia is recognised by the world, or fails, and the prospect of honest, hard work confronts them when they get home.

WEST GETS CROP MONEY.

BY O. A. MATHER.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The shifting of credit resources of the Federal Reserve system from the East to the West, in preparation for the autumnal demands incident to crop movement, was "betokened in the bank statements issued yesterday. The real demands had not yet begun, but the amount of the statements should reflect the pressure of legitimate autumn requirements on the credit market. Between August 15 and November 1, the year, loans of the Federal Reserve Banks expanded $52,000,000.

The reports of the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve Banks were indicative of the shifting of credit requirements, the former showing a decrease and the latter an increase in loans, while both showed recessions in deposits, al-

The nominees for Governor and Attorney-General of Utah selected by the Farmer-Labor party both indignantly spurn all connection with that crazy-quilt organization. They claim to be particular with whom they associate. To allege connection with this party will soon be considered grounds for a libel suit.THE OHIO IDEA.
The Ohio Utilities Commission refuses to permit the railroads to increase the passenger rates 20 per cent as authorized by the government board. There will be a lot of people calling on Senator Harding and Gov. Cox this year and the State commission intends to make the trip as cheap as possible so far as Ohio is concerned.TABLE STAKES.
Some of the swell hotels and cafes are accused of making 1500 per cent profit on some of the fruits and vegetables they serve. One place charged 75 cents for a baked potato that cost 2 cents to start with. Has anybody heard lately about a hotel man being hard up? Looks as if they would soon have all the money in the world.AN EXCHANGE.
A some humorist in the Mexican government declares that if the United States should demand the person of Villa to be tried for the Columbus raid Mexico will in its turn demand the extradition of General Pershing for his invasion of Mexican soil. It might not be a bad idea to give Gen. Pershing to the Mexicans. If he were sent down there with an escort of about 10,000 American engineers he would soon have the country on a paying basis.BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE.
Senator Harding asserts that the country must undertake to raise timber crops just as it cultivates the wheat and the corn. The old program of devastation without restoration must be reversed. The housing problem of the nation is a considerable one, but it is still possible to adopt a government policy which will assure to future generations the timber required for our home-building. There is still plenty of suitable land and a program for reforestation must be attempted. As the Senator puts it: "With timber-growing on the one hand and forest protection and preservation on the other there isn't any reason why the United States should not be self-reliant in lumber." The present and future needs of the country could be easily supplied by undertaking a policy of ordinary business methods. It should be as important to restore as to destroy.SIGNS OF THE TIMES.
Yesterday's Times was especially rich in things of interest and profit to every reader, of whatever age, sex, business, financial condition and walk of life. But it was not all in that part known to the craft as "pure reading matter." The voluminous advertising columns are a mine of information to the casual reader, a Golconda to the thrifty, a blessing to the busy shopper. To the discerning they are more than all these. They show a return to lower price levels, they prove a disposition on the part of our merchants to give the public the benefit of better market conditions, they manifest the absence of the profiteer.

Los Angeles merchants have a deserved reputation for enterprise and business acumen, but no less a one for public spirit and liberality in the interests of the community. In funds and service to Los Angeles, individually and through their civic organizations, they have given ample proof that they have the interests of the public at heart. Their messages to the public through the advertising columns of The Times are more than a profit-seeking appeal. They have added to the ancient bromide that "It Pays to Advertise" the modern conclusion "and to Read Advertising."

STILL TALKING TARIFF.
Senator Harding is of the opinion that the tariff will be an issue in the present campaign. He is right about it, at that. The tariff may be a proposal and tedious issue, but conditions may make it an important one. If the American workmen are to maintain the high standard of wages the tariff will be necessary when the rest of the world is hard at work and seeks America as a market. Labor costs are much less in the old countries and we cannot compete with Europe on a purely man-power basis—at least while suffering from union stagnation. Furthermore, with government costs so high and tax burdens so onerous it is a wise policy which would make the importations pay as great a proportion of this excess as possible. Adequate import duties on the luxuries and nonessentials add a tariff high enough on staples to conserve the home market would be an expedient administrative policy. Senator Harding favors placing authority in the hands of a tariff commission. Congress cannot be expected to have always at hand sufficient information on differentials and rates as to act promptly and wisely. The tariff is a matter for experts with a knowledge of international conditions. We have heard a lot about the tariff in past campaigns and we are destined to hear more of it—at least until authority is given to nonpartisan specialists along the line indicated.CAMOUFLAGE.
To be all things to all men is the supreme ambition of the modern tribe of Machiavelli, the petty politicians. They carry about with them complete changes of views, which they doff and don with the nonchalance of the professional actor. In State politics they are wet in San Francisco and dry in Los Angeles; they favor the closed shop in the north and independent industry in the south; they are for the League of Nations in Pasadena and are "bitter-enders" in Sacramento. They are human chameleons whose political color is simply the reflection of local opinion.

Ethics is an obsolete word in politics. It has been replaced by expediency. The average office-seeker is after the salary, and the spoils that patronage affords. Principles are to him cards to be shuffled and distributed, with a foreknowledge of what suit is going to be trumps. There are still honest men in public places, but association of a number of years with professional politicians serves as a great toughener for the human conscience.

Under the direct primary system of naming candidates the various forms of subterfuge have been multiplied. Under the old convention system all those entitled to vote were gathered in a single hall and within the sound of a single voice. Visible proof of political dishonesty could be submitted and exposures were matters of a few minutes. But the bigger the district, the easier it is, under the direct primary, for a candidate to play the part of the artful dodger and the demagogue and get away with it.

Attention of The Times has been called to the number of candidates in the present State and county campaign who are using in certain districts the union label on their campaign cards and pamphlets. At least half the candidates have two different forms of campaign cards. In the working-class districts he distributes a card bearing the union label. As soon as he strikes a middle-class community the cards come from another pocket and the union label is missing. They use the former only in the communities where they think there is a big union-label vote.

In the opinion of The Times a candidate who distributes cards bearing the totem in one, district and cards indicative of independent industry in another is deserving of the support of neither element of the community. Los Angeles is nationally known as a citadel of industrial freedom. The union laborites have frequently attempted to form a political organization here, but no one has been elected in sixteen years to a State or county office from Los Angeles on a straight union-labor ticket. Whenever a test of strength is possible, the totem-bearers are always shown to be only a weak minority. Yet The Times is aware that three-fourths of the candidates for State and county office have finished before the bluff of the walking delegates and have given instructions that the union label be placed on their campaign literature.

One is deceived by this shop-worn form of subterfuge. The members of the unions know when they see the label on a card that it is only a cheap bid for their vote. The electorate of Los Angeles city and county is too well read and too astute to be misled either by the presence or the absence of the union label. The average elector makes personal inquiries about the political and industrial connections of the candidates in his or her district, learns the endorsements the candidates carry and does not need a campaign card to tell whether a given man favors the closed shop or independent industry.

Candor is a lost virtue in this tribe of political opportunists. Most of them would be very likely to be willing to distribute cards bearing the I.W.W. emblem if there were communities in their districts with a big "wobbly" vote. In a number of Assembly districts members of labor unions are candidates and The Times has no quarrel with them for placing the totem on their cards. For those candidates are representatives of class rule, they are making their campaign on the class issue and, if elected, they will join in the movement to create an imperio in imperio in the State and national governments.

But The Times has nothing but disgust for a candidate who has no union-labor affiliations, who has never been associated with a class movement, who has given evidence elsewhere of his belief in industrial liberty, and yet who is so ignorant or careless of the ethics and morals of representative government that he will cause to be placed on his campaign literature the hall-mark of industrial servitude. If it were a case of choice between such a trimmer and an open and sincere advocate of class legislation, The Times would be inclined to choose the latter, preferring honest ignorance to educated duplicity.

NATIONAL DUPPLICITY.
The assertion of Tchitcherin, the Foreign Minister of Red Russia, that the Bolsheviks have shown fidelity to their agreements and obligations is completely discredited by the facts. The further assertion that if they promised to protect the United States against the agitation of the Moscow Communists their representatives would rigidly fulfill their pledge is also preposterous. It is the very heart of Bolshevism that no agreement can be made except with those of its kind. It is an absolute virtue to break a promise with any other. It is a Bolshevik glory to induce others to make professions or contracts with which the Bolsheviks might break on their part to their own advantage. It is almost a tenet of the infamous Communists that they have the interests of the public at heart. Their messages to the public through the advertising columns of The Times are more than a profit-seeking appeal. They have added to the ancient bromide that "It Pays to Advertise" the modern conclusion "and to Read Advertising."STILL TALKING TARIFF.

THE ASIATICS.
Herbert Hoover would keep all Asiatics from this country as far as possible. He declares that assimilation is impossible. Nothing good can come of trying it. The product of a union is usually a degenerate. Furthermore, the standards of living and of life are so at variance that there can be nothing in common. So it is best that the East and the West be kept as far apart as can be. Mr. Hoover is not speaking of the Japanese, but of all Asiatics and Orientals. As permanent residents of America they should be officially discouraged, if it is not possible to forbid them entrance. The second generation in this country does not materially change the first. Ten generations could not make them Americans.

Special Committee at Pomona Works on Problem.

Rancher's Son Does Work of Sculptor.

Alfalfa Growers Sell Crop for $32 a Ton.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE
POMONA, Aug. 22.—Dr. Holmes G. Brown, City Councilman and Commissioner of Health, together with Dr. W. H. Eaton, local health officer; Mrs. W. H. Rogers, head of the Welfare League in this district; Mayor W. A. Vandegrift and others are now actively engaged in solving the housing problem. Pomona, a center of tourists and also due to natural growth, the building of houses has failed to keep pace with the demand. Special attention is to be paid to the unsanitary, crowded condition of Mexican families, many of whom own two and three large families in one small five-room bungalow.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The regular annual meeting of the Citrus Belt Milk Goat Association was held Saturday afternoon in the Public Library at 2 o'clock. Dr. A. J. Pfeifer, of Upland, was elected president of the association.

YOUTHFUL GENIUS.

A youthful genius has come to light in the person of Wiley McCausland, 11-year-old son of Duncan McCausland, a China rancher. The boy, modeling almost perfect likenesses of different animals, only, instead of using clay from which to form the objects, he uses the common old sugar beet. In place of the sculptor's tools, the youthful prodigy uses only a rusty pocket knife. After carving out his effects the lad gives the model a coat or two of shellac, which preserves the form for a long time. He has received an offer from an eastern toy manufacturer to place his idea on the market.

BUSY BUILDERS.

With the building permits already issued this month, with ten days yet to go, Dr. W. Cowies, city building commissioner, has issued permits in the total of $27,900, which passes the "mouth" of July by a large margin. Pomona has not seen such an era of building and prosperity as has been going on during the past year, for a long time, and with the tourist season almost here, the activity is due to continue for some time yet to come.

PROFITABLE CROP.

China ranchers are enjoying unprecedented prosperity from the all-new crop this year. The two cuttings were sold for as high as $22 a ton in the field. Constable W. J. Tebo, a rancher, as well as county and city official, is authority for the statement that, on account of the high prices, the cuttings this year will not run as heavy as last, the ranchers will receive more money than ever before.

Judge Holds Chickens Are a Nuisance.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE)
PASADENA, Aug. 22.—The San Joaquin Fe Railroad may remove its surface tracks inside the city limits and enter Pasadena through a tunnel that it is proposed to build under the extension of Green street. The matter is now under consideration. The City Commission approved the plan because the grade crossings, which have been regarded as a menace.

Green street now runs only as far as Marengo avenue. Plans are under way for extending it to the eastern city limits. It is proposed that there would be a simple matter to dig the railroad tunnel along the course the street is to follow. As the right of way is opened up, there has been an aviated space against the railroad crossings. The tunnel will furnish a solution of the problem.

MORE STAGE LINER.

The establishment of additional motor stages lines radiating from Pasadena to near-by towns are under discussion. Another project is a bus line from Pasadena to San Diego, with stops at intermediate points.

The Chamber of Commerce is trying to make Pasadena a retail center for all the near-by towns. It is pointed out that this city is old enough to scratch. The defendant maintained that her chickens were a nuisance as much as it is old enough to scratch. The defendant maintained that her chickens were not much of a nuisance. She was found guilty and fined $16, but her fine was suspended on condition that she keep the fowls in her own yard henceforth.

ELLEN BEACH YAW IS MARRIED TO PIANIST.

CALIFORNIA'S FAMOUS SINGER AND FRANKLIN CANNON WEDDED YESTERDAY.

Ellen Beach Yaw, California's famous Lark, Ellen, was married to Franklin Cannon by candlelight at Franklin Cannon, a concert pianist of national renown who has studios in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Unconventional in its simplicity was the ceremony performed by Rev. L. M. Idelman, rector of Holy Trinity Church in Covina, at the home of Mrs. E. F. Thorpe, sister of Miss Yaw. Mr. Cannon himself composed a "Wedding March" for his bride who appeared in the silvery light on the flower encircled terrace where she has sung in the moonlight fetes every fall for the last three years for the benefit of the Lark Ellen Newsboys' Home in Los Angeles.

Before the strains of the march were heard by the guests seated in the pergola above the terrace the organist struck a few louder and louder, the notes and then the famous echo tones of "The Skylark," the song composed by the singer four years ago and arranged by Mr. Cannon.

Then Miss Georgella Loy took the place at the piano and the two were united by the rector with lines briefly read in accordance with the sincere desire of the bride, Mrs. Yaw.

Tom Louis, with $18.50 in his possession, was booked at the City Jail on a charge of smuggling. Bing, who had $40.00 in his pockets when he was booked, was charged with suspicion of smuggling. Both were held in custody without bail, and will be turned over to Special Agent John of the United States Treasury Department.

With the opium taken by the detective was a quantity of yamshas, and a complete smoking outfit.

The wedding gown was of the shortest crepe de chine embroidered from bodice to hem with thousands of brilliants which sparkled in the soft light from beneath a tulip veil which completely enveloped the bride's figure. The veil was caught in the arms with orange blossoms and orange trees near which the bride stood.

There were present fifty close friends of the bride, who were asked to pay $100.00 for the privilege. After Mr. Cannon had arrived from New York Thursday when the news of the engagement was made known, though they had been betrothed for four years, he had known each other for many years, the coming of this active news to Miss Yaw's wide circle of friends.

After a brief honeymoon in Southern California Mr. and Mrs. Cannon will tour together in concert throughout the larger cities of the East and Middle West.

TAX RATES LOWER.

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 22.—Property owners here are saving money by cutting down on the tax rates.

The old city, which includes the lower part of town, is down 10% and in the annex 11%, and the tax in the old city was cut 10% and in the annex 11%. County tax has also been cut 10% on valuation.

Members of the party went directly to the Mission Inn, where they were met by R. W. Walker, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation; H. R. Moses, president of the Alafair Growers' Association; R. A. Whitney, director of the California Farmers' Association; M. F. McPherson, president of the Mutual Orange Distributors; J. M. Davison, president of the Poultry Breeders' Association, and others.

Following a dinner at the Mission Inn where they visited with the guests of the County Farm Bureau, the party followed a tour of the San Joaquin Fe

FLASHES.WILL BE SOLO STAR.*BILL DESMOND SCHEDULED TO HEAD COMPANY.

By Grace Kingsey.

If one has been working like the proverbial Trojan for three or four long years, it does seem as if he or she might have a little vacation. But life for William Desmond is, it seems, to be just one picture contract after another.

No sooner had Mr. Desmond completed his two-year contract with Jean D. Hampton, than he was signed up for one of the star roles in Carter de Haven's First National production of "Twin Beds" and has even now got time to draw an easy breath after that the dashing Bill was engaged for one or two pictures with the Bradley Film Company of Cleveland.

Mr. Desmond is in Cleveland playing the star role in "Women Men Love." On finishing this part he hoped to take Mrs. Desmond and their daughter Desmond for a tour of the country. But now it looks as though he will have to renew his contract, probably to make his own pictures, as he has been offered excellent financial backing.

No, now, Tom, concerns, as he doesn't wish to discontinue the pleasant home life into which he has settled since building his-home and marrying, and therefore doesn't he won't think of accepting either.

Mr. Desmond is expected home September 1, according to his wife, and will then make known his plans. If he is ready to offer to head a dramatic company, and may even take a temporary flyer into the spoken play.

MOORE PICTUREMOVES WITH ZIP.

Fast fare isn't always the easiest thing in the world to put on the screen. It's likely to be touchy with subplots and jolts with which it's hard to make look appropriate as it sounds on the stage. But the Goldwyn production of "Stop Thief," which Harry Beaumont directed and in which Tom Moore is star, is a California hit this week, as hits go. If anybody could ask Tom Moore establishes himself as the comedian who knows how to get his laughs though playing his role straight, losing the comedy to suit that inimitable and versatile actor, Raymond Hatten, as the bridegroom.

While we're talking about the cast we mustn't forget that the musical play of the theives maid nor Molly Malone, who makes a wee, part stand out like a cameo. The Fader is also delightful.

But we're always in the case, in the cumulative effect of the farce that makes it funny. After the kleptomaniac bridegroom has brought the bogus detective who's been impeded by the real thief, "please, not to let him take anything" and the real thief has answered, "I'll see that you don't if I see it first," the fun begins to pile up.

In the cast, beside those mentioned, are Irene Rich, Kate Lester, Harry Gordon, Andrew Robson, Henry Ralston, John Lince, Fred Flynn, and others.

If you have seen any of Booth Tarkington's "Edgar" stories, you will look forward to "Edgar Takes the Cake," a true-to-life story punctuated with laughs for the young and comic relief for older. Lincoln Rickeon is sweet and saucy as ever, and the other children are all delightful.

W. G. Stewart, producing director, is to be congratulated on a showmanship that has produced with fine showmanship, the music being especially bright. Miss Elsa Grosser, violinist, distinguished herself by her brilliant playing of Nache's "Danse Zigan," and the male quartet scored in popular songs.

POPULAR HERO PLAYS BRISK COMEDY ROLE.

We're so used to seeing the dashing and handsome William Desmond in the role of chest-thumping hero that it's a significant surprise to behold him at Clune's Broadway, yesterday breezily carrying his audience along with him in a crisp and refreshing comedy. The story, called "Broadway Cowboy," is by Byron Morris, and is most stimulating as a still-breezy tale of the sea.

The effect is helped out by the snappy sub-titles. Joseph Frantz did a capital job of directing.

"Acquaintance with a regular actor," says an opening subtitle, "puts him in the running," on par with the heroines of history. That's when she first meets the hero, a matineé idol on Broadway, who is playing a cowboy role, but who has never been west of the Hudson River, ne'er!

Here Mr. Desmond does some very good satirizing of the pompous player; and in fact, his a real character study, built around the role of a favorite, who's out on the road, and losing his trunk, is compelled to wear his stage clothes. Through this circumstance he gets arraigned by the Sheriff of Betty's home town, by the way, a town not far from the first. The action winds out, however, with his quick wit and real nerve, of course.

There's not the faintest trace of posing on Mr. Desmond's part. He accepts all the tricks of fate, and as good stories as "The Broadway Cowboy" are to play them, as Joe's play grows "mellier" as it goes, with a good-natured nonchalance.

If the star keeps on getting as good stories as "The Broadway Cowboy" he's to play them, as Joe's play grows "mellier" as it goes, with a good-natured nonchalance.

Betty Francisco is a daring horsewoman, and is pretty and appealing as well. Our heroines, having seen her before, but hope again. J. P. Lockley, Thomas Doherty, Paddy McGuire, and a kid actor are others who should be mentioned. While the woman who made the character of Betty is not named, deserves credit for making her role entirely human.

A comedy, and some pictures of Poland during the present troubles of that country, evoke additional pleasure for the spectator.

"The Very Idea" Amuses.

"The Very Idea," a merry farce built around the eugenics theory, promises to prove a popular, as some of the comedies that have preceded it at the Morosco Theater.

The show is full of mirthful complications, and the lines are often highly amusing.

Louis Calhern, Gwyn Whitman and Evelyn Woodruff are playing the principal roles.

This is Mr. Calhern's final week in the production, as he is going into pictures. Harry Hilliard is to appear in the piece next Sunday. Still

The company manage to emphasize the mirthful possibilities of the lines.

The four chief roles were portrayed by Evelyn Varden, John Davidson, V. Talbot Henderson and Irene Shirley. Miss Varden made a bewitching country girl in the first act, and revealed her pose to advantage as the wife.

Irene Shirley was especially clever in her realization of the Peruvian girl. She has filled her role with a Latin animation, especially realistic. Miss Shirley is a true actress.

Though he is an exceedingly weak actor, Dan T. Donnelly is a good character, especially as Big Rosalie.

It is not on a par with his intelligent interpretation of John Tanner in "Man and Superman."

John Davidson is again capable in a vigorous role, and Forrest Seabury also deserves mention. The cast is very small.

We have no doubt that it will be decidedly interesting to see Mr. Davidson in "Ghosts," by Irene, which is the next production scheduled. He has appeared at his best in the literary type of play.

"Humerous" Showings.

Seemingly meeting the popular demand for a human photoplay, "Humerous" continues to attract large audiences at Grauman's Rialto. The picture tells the story of a young Jewish musician. It contains some interesting glimpses of life in New York's East Side.

Very Gorrie makes an especially trim and attractive Anna Rubens, Gaston Glass and others furnish effective portrayals.

"Mickey" on View Again.

"Mickey," Mabel Normand's popular picture, is proving its won't at the Kinema this week at the Symphony Theater.

This, Mabel's first large feature, has always held a strong interest for the public, because of the sympathetic quality of the comedy.

Mabel Normand's interpretation of the humdrum country girl is typically clever.
